SPORTS & REC

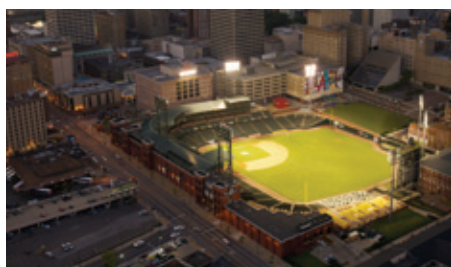

Against the backdrop of green Tennessee, the sporting life runs the recreational gamut.

Dale Hollow Lake, Byrdstown

In every season Tennessee offers ample opportunities to enjoy the world of outdoor sports. Hear the wind on a mountain trail; churn the Ocoee waters; follow the pioneers through Cumberland Gap; gallop through Great Smoky Mountains; paddle the calm waters of Reelfoot Lake. Cast your line into some of the country's best fishing holes or get moving on our greenways. Golf your way across the state. Cheer for the home team or be part of the excitement when engines are racing.

TEAM SPORTS

Aerial View of Downtown Memphis and AutoZone Park

Put on that team jersey and let the cheering crowd carry you along. Pro football, basketball, baseball and hockey provide year-round fun. Our collegiate teams paint your game face in shades of orange, blue and red. Better yet, cheer the next generation on a youth sports team.

Hit a home run with your family when you take them all out to the ballgame. With nine minor league baseball teams blanketing the state, there's no better way to enjoy a summer night than in one of Tennessee's ballparks.

At Tennessee pro hockey games, join in the fun of special events and promotions that range from Star Wars nights to fundraising drives. Be part of the NBA action with the Memphis Grizzlies. For football fans, the Tennessee Titans have become one of the most exciting franchises in the NFL.

Large universities and small colleges throughout the state keep fans cheering, from the eight-time NCAA basketball champion Lady Vols to multiple conference champions in small college sports. We have the teams to start you cheering.

OUTDOOR SPORTS

Whitewater Rafting Nolichucky River

Tennessee is home to breathtaking wildernesses: cliffs, canyons, lush canopies and cold, clear plunge pools, award-winning state parks and the beloved Smokies. Thrill to our great outdoors, from wildlife areas to impressive greenways. Explore the mighty Mississippi. Play all day in our lakes.

Hit a different kind of trail. Choose Nashville's Trace or eastern Sunny Side Trail, with scenic spots and outdoor adventure along beautiful backroads. Take in spectacular waterfalls, spilling from the Highland Rim, or paddle pastoral rivers. Scale the wonderfully wild Cumberland Plateau.

Gallop on horseback, lead a llama, glide through pristine mountains on a float trip, find a serene swimming spot. Cruise marinas, shoot the rapids through spectacular river gorges, fly fish in a refreshing stream. Get up early for the sunrise, and watch nature unfold in Tennessee.

WATER SPORTS

Dale Hollow Lake, Brydstown

With more than 50 rivers and countless lakes, Tennessee presents the perfect playground for every water sports enthusiast. Wet a line in a rushing mountain brook or float down a peaceful stream. Kayak the rapids or swing from a tree into a placid lake.

Enjoy lunch at a beautiful marina or spend the night on a quiet houseboat. Take a nature cruise, ride a paddleboat, or zip across the water on skis.

With Endless Opportunities for Water Sports, Here are a Few Spots to Try

Dale Hollow Lake, Byrdstown

Experience unspoiled, scenic beauty of 620 miles of undeveloped shoreline and spring-fed waters in the Highland Rim.

FISHING

Fast-running mountain streams filled with trout, peaceful lakes swimming with bass and bream, rivers alive with fish of all kinds. These are the Tennessee treats in store for fishermen. Watch the pros lure big wins at big-time fishing tournaments. Shake hands with some of the best angling anywhere—striper, bream, catfish, trout, perch, walleye, crappie and more—on authentic and diverse Tennessee waterways. The hardest thing about Tennessee fishing is deciding where to start.

Wet a Line in One of Countless Lakes and Rivers

J. Percy Priest Lake, Nashville

A variety of outdoor recreation to over 5,000,000 visitors each year. Fishing, camping, boating, canoeing, swimming, skiing, hiking, horseback riding, and much more.

http://tnvacation.com/vendors/j_percy_priest_lake/

Center Hill Lake, Smithville

Many fish attractors and brush piles throughout the lake. An excellent spot for smallmouth and largemouth bass, striped bass (white bass), catfish, bluegill, and walleye.

A challenging river to fly fish, demanding a stealthy approach. The tail water is 13 miles, flowing from Norris Dam through a beautiful pastoral setting.

http://www.tnvacation.com/vendors/clinch_river/

CYCLING

Cycling in Tennessee means fantastic vistas for leisurely riders and long-distance cyclists alike. With the highest elevation in Tennessee at 6,643 feet and the lowest point at 178 feet, our varied terrain will keep you guessing.

The Mississippi River Trail runs 185 miles from wildlife-rich Reelfoot Lake to Memphis. Ride along the Highland Rim. The scenic roads around Lake Watauga are among the best mountain biking routes in the country. Try bike paths at Chickasaw State Park and mountain trails on the Natchez Trace.

Run through woods filled with wildlife in David Crockett State Park and Fall Creek Falls. Booker T. Washington State Park's six-mile loop features both long uphill climbs and fast downhill.

Off-road biking is allowed in Great Smoky Mountains National Park in several spots. The tranquil Cades Cove Loop encourages bikers, and rentals are available. Along the way, take in churches, pioneer cabins, and other historic structures.

HUNTING AND SHOOTING

When you want to hit the bullseye, set your sights on Tennessee. Whether you are an archery buff, skeet shooter or avid hunter, the game is afoot in Tennessee. Escape to rolling hills, crisp blue skies and thick forests. Tennessee is the perfect retreat for a hunter seeking a fantastic day outdoors. Visit a spectacular wildlife preserve or take a weekend at one of the many hunting lodges in the state.

Hunting lands, waterways and undeveloped shoreline afford vast acres teeming with game for Tennessee's hunters. Among prime hunting opportunities are Big South Fork National River and Recreation Area, Tims Ford State Park and several national wildlife refuges—Chickasaw, Cross Creeks, Lower Hatchie, Reelfoot, Lake Isom and Tennessee National Wildlife Refuge.

Field trials are full of amazing breeds showing off their skills. Witness these amazing retrieving, pointing and flushing dogs competing for high stakes, and learn more about breeds and the sport while enjoying a great day outdoors.

Clay pigeons are fast, unpredictable and promise to keep you firing until you hear the last one shatter. Prefer a target that sits still? Plan a day at one of Tennessee's many rifle ranges or spend the afternoon perfecting your archery skills.
